developed and earned. True gaiety is not synonymous with frivolity and irresponsibility. It is the outcome of a sense of accomplishment, of a feeling of content with things done and obstacles overcome.

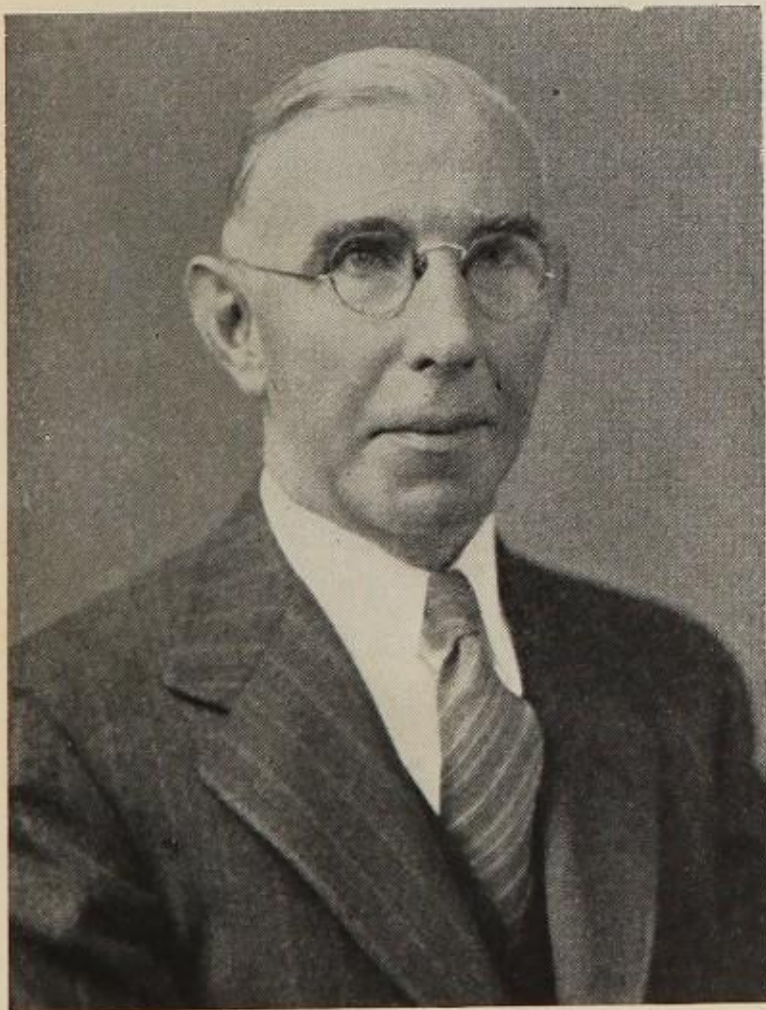

In this sense, youthful gaiety may be a desirable mood in which to approach life's problems. May your contact with them neither age nor sadden you prematurely, and may your solutions bring you lasting satisfaction.

MAX NEWFIELD
Principal

Boys and girls of the Class of June 1946:

There is a wholesome post-war ring about your motto, "Our Hearts Are Young and Gay." Youth is a matter of chronology, but gaiety must be

A Note Of Thanks To Miss Horne

Dear Miss Horne:

We entered Madison four years ago as six hundred students in various degrees of eagerness ready to prepare through eight long terms for this June which is now upon us. There were many instances when we didn't know what to do or where to turn next—unless, of course, we had heard of our Grade Advisor. Your patience was axiomatic, as was your wit and charm. We generally took your advice and more often than not found it to be good. We enjoyed those visits with you to such an extent that at times some of us had too many problems for you. Those, too, were ironed out.

You have fulfilled your position of Grade Advisor quite efficiently. More than that, however, you have been a friend, a real human being to us, who could understand and reason with us and make decisions that at times frightened us. We would like to thank you, Miss Horne, for the problems you have solved and particularly for your "human-ness"—and we would like to leave you with the thought that many of us are pictured here in these pages today largely because of your infinitely helpful work.

Sincerely,

The Graduating Class of June 1946

In the last two years I've haunted you with do's and don't's, with suggestions and reproaches, with demands for pictures and requests for nominations. It might be a pleasant change to reverse the process and utter a few words of appreciation.

I've enjoyed this grade. When Mr. Weiner left you in my care in the middle of your high school course you accepted your new Grade Advisor with graciousness and open-mindedness. You chose fine class and grade officers for me to work with and supplied me with a wonderful office squad. The most acrimonious interviews between you and me have ended peacefully and to date I am still on speaking terms with all six hundred and thirty one of you—as far as I know.

I'm glad your Log proclaims that your "hearts are young and gay." You know me well enough by now to know how much importance I place on individual responsibility, the obligation of each to take his part in solving the problems of the group and doing his share of the work of the group. The ability to do this with gay hearts, which you have developed now, will prevent you in the future from being tempted to put off on some hypothetical "they" the job of solving your problems for you. Be determined to stand on your own feet after you leave us. Do it—and enjoy it—and your hearts will stay "young and gay."

AFFECTIONATELY

Elizabeth E. Horne

Our Hearts Are Young And Gay

"Our Hearts are Young and Gay"—
Six words that mean so much today.
On Europe's bomb-beaten shore
Live young bodies worn by war.
Old men in spirit—age—four.
The youth of the world all live in America
We must prevent oppression and prepare the way
We cannot fail—
For Our Hearts are Young and Gay.

In The Service

Although upon graduation we are entering into a world theoretically at peace, the earth is still rolling and seething like turbulent waters after a storm. Because of these still unsettled conditions, Uncle Sam is maintaining selective service. Constantly our eighteen year old boys are being drawn away from the schools.

These boys are not here to share our ordeals and happiness. However they are with us in spirit and but for the frothings of a late demoniacal world would have been at our sides. They are our friends and companions, and until recently our schoolmates. This is their graduation as well as our own, and it is only fitting that we bring them back by dedicating this space to re-acquaint ourselves with them.

A New Thesaurus

We have come across many new names, words and symbols in our four years at Madison. In order that we may recall these better known institutions a list has been compiled of the following:

DAFFYNITIONS

LUNCHROOM	Ptomain Domain
PUBLICATIONS OFFICE	Where the "Elite meet to eat."
SERVICE LEAGUE	Best Organization to get the least done in the most time.
BASEMENT "D"	Where's that?
BULLETIN BOARD	What's that?
ARISTA	Erand boys Cum Laude
NATATORIUM	Sunny Bannon's Pool Room
ELEVATOR PASS	Badge of political achievement
"UP" STAIRCASE	Same as "Down" staircase (Hey, leggo me arm!)
LIBRARY	"Where angels fear to tread"
PRETENTION	"Where the blue of the night meet the gold of the day."
TEACHERS' REST ROOM	Ping-pong palace
GYM LOCKER ROOM	Superheated sardine can. (L.S.M.F.T.)
CLUB HOUR	"Do nothing 'til you hear from me"
S.G.O.	Student Government Organization

Familiar Sayings

In the four illustrious years spent at Madison, our pedagogues have let fall many pearls of wisdom. Each preceptor is known by an identifying phrase. In later years, when you glance through these pages, we hope that they will strike a familiar note.

Mr. Wolf: "The story for today is . . ."

Mr. Morgenstern: "You won't need this but it's n-i-c-e to know."

Miss Hansbery: "Thankya' ever so much dearie . . ."

Mr. Wolfson: "Hence . . ."

Mrs. Haas: "I'll do it, so help me Hannah . . ."

Mr. Fanning: "The rich get rich, and the poor get children . . ."

Mrs. Bullard: "Zerrro!"

Mr. Hederich: "When weel you marry me, mine girl???"

Miss Zubrod: "I'm not trying to out-Winchell Winchell but . . ."

Mr. Levins: "Know anybody who's got an apartment to rent?"

Mrs. Potter: "The blank is blank, and the blank is blank, therefore, blank is blank and blank is blank!"

Mr. Fine: "Any remarks pertinent or otherwise? . . ."

Mrs. Garfield: "You haven't read that? Why my dear, you haven't lived . . ."

Mr. Weiner: "Don't worry, we'll take care of it . . ."

Mrs. Freilicher: "That's so terribly cliché . . ."

Miss Tannenbaum: "Ye Gods . . ."

Miss Horne: "Hell's bells . . ."

Our Last Will And Testament

We, the dying class of June 1946, being the party of the first part, do bequeath to you, the party of the second part, the third part; which consists of all of our wordly possessions. We trust that our generosity will be duly appreciated.

WE LEAVE TO:

- Mr. Newfield: A big red litter can.
- Mr. Downing: A cake of Ivory soap to make the boys come clean.
- Mrs. Neiman: A report with love and kisses.
- Mr. Sosnow: The financial page of the N.Y. Times.
- Mrs. Whitlock: One cellar door.
- Mr. Van Steenberg: A bevy of beautiful secretaries.
- Mrs. Nurnberg: An efficient S.G.O. Staff.
- Mr. Fine: An Oscar that will return to Mars.
- Dr. Whiteman: A coupla' million bucks.
- Mr. Rothbart: One great big hubba hubba.
- Mr. Drachman: A sweater to keep him warm.
- Mr. Tobin: A filing system for his catalogues.
- Miss Horne: A new guest book for her returning friends.
- Mrs. Hutchinson: A full page P.M. Journal.
- Miss Flatow: A box of Kleenex.
- Mrs. Weiner: Triplets of her own.
- Miss Toby: An eggless and butterless, sugarless cake.
- Mr. Namowitz: A map without meridians.
- Mrs. Connolly: An office entrance sans polka-dots.
- Mr. Schwartz: Another Schildkröte.
- Miss McCushing: A gross of Wrigley Spearmint gum.

Moon Pitchers

Turn on the atomic integrator-exhalator!—Everyone tighten his stratosphere belt!—We're off!!!

The Madistratison Sight See'er is whirling madly through space at 100,000 miles per minute. Notice as we pass the Moon that Milt Lesser's Cy Clatron has Nasty Willy ambushed in a crater. There's Jerome Sachs, Chairman of the Shooting Star Committee, waving to us from the edge of the Big Dipper. He is resting after a vigorous campaign boosting Stephen Schwebel for President of the Milky Way. Miss Anita Pasache—sight see'ers are requested to refrain from reaching for the sweets of the Milky Way! Onward and Upward! We are about to approach Mars, which, incidentally was first reached by Rita Green, who was blown through space while experimenting with chemical combinations. Our Robot Pilot, invented by Dr. Bernice Ginsberg, is tuning in the Mars Thespians. The script, written by Florence Rosenberg, has as its cast; Diane Casper, Herbert Popper and Gloria Berk. The building from which they are broadcasting was designed by that egregious architect, Zelda Karella. Behold Inge Schnier swinging on a star while painting a rainbow across the sky. And there's that devil Devy Buxbaum, reaching for the pot of gold at the end of it. How did she get up here in heaven! On the right is Suzanne Cuff whizzing across the sky on Pegasus and attempting to race us to Jupiter. The pinpoint visible on the planet is Larry Isakoff searching for the Lost Weekend. There's Cookie Bernstein, Lou Goldman, Paul Pops, Arnold Samuels and Dolores Harris selling Marjorie Coffey, Al Green and Barry Schwartz tickets to the Starlight Roof (which the Class of '46 never did get for their Prom. I notice that we have among us some prominent people; Dr. Seymour Berl, and Neil Eisen, Congressman Rayfiel, Angela Pestilli, renowned concert pianist, and Wallace Sturm, voted most valuable potsy player of the year. The stratosphere is growing thinner as we head toward Saturn. Walter Tuckman, famous interpreter, has made communication with Saturn possible by mastering the translation of the Hubba-Hubba language. Of political significance, it is interesting to note that Saturn to Uranus Rocket Ship Route which is owned by monopolists Gerald Radzivill, Winifred Brandfon and Daniel Brachfeld.

We are running low on jet propulsion so will turn back to earth. Wow! We almost hit Lubrano's Comet which completes its orbit around our sun every 100 years. Our ship is gathering momentum. Heavenly days, there is Irwin Rosenthal sitting on a pink cloud and quoting from the famous poem by Sir Roger Lester:

*"Forsooth ewore a zooty boot below
Atop gedeked wi' gremulum aflow
A fludabud adangling twixt garoome
Can ne'er the druid fluid flume
the frume."*

Stand by for a landing everybody! We hope you enjoyed our tour across the universe. If you didn't, please register complaints upon leaving with your star dizzy guides,

Memoirs

Freshman Remember how grown up we all felt our first day at Madison? New clothes, perhaps a new haircut (worrying because it was too short), and our first big allowances.

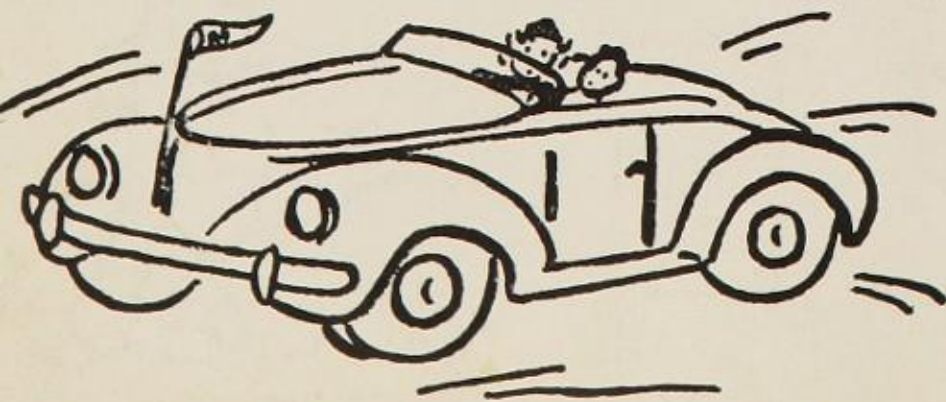

And the halls and rooms were so large. Remember having the first seat right in front of the teacher, who looked so frightening as he gave us a glassy stare (he was wearing contact lenses). We bought notebooks and lots of clean paper—and our allowances dwindled. The teachers didn't treat us like freshmen. In fact, they took it for granted that we'd spend two hours on a history assignment. Somehow we managed this, even though the sophomores shook their heads dolefully when we told them which math teachers we had.

They say that into every life a little rain must fall. But they never said anything about a hurricane. Remember just when we wanted to look smooth for our first Madison dance, and our hair went limp. We walked in, cattle-to-the-slaughter, and danced with those goons we'd been avoiding all day. Or we'd have a wonderful time with a senior, and see him for weeks later—until he asked the girl next door to the next dance.

Soph We thought nothing could quite equal that first year. And now we felt rather worldly and important as we walked down the main hall, better known as "bow-tie boulevard."

That was the year we discovered the cutting-system and became Rest Room Rembrandts. It was a year of politics. During the school elections seniors-on-the-stairs took us aside. The candidates promised "no homework over week-ends." That was the elastic clause—it stretched right over Saturday and Sunday.

Lunch periods supplied the much needed time in which to do our math homework. We laboriously piled milk containers in pyramids and then computed the altitude of the triangle formed—grinning from brain to brain. No days ever passed so quickly. We had our first regents exams and the terror that goes with them. And the days fled.

Junior Junior year—joining school clubs and participating in activities, that's all we talked about for days. Tryouts for the "Madison Highway" (learning to type with both hands, while an underling tapped your left leg for printers ink)—Rehearsals for "The Gondoliers" (becoming capable of heights of thought and depths of emotion, or depths of thought and heights of emotion)—Go-Getter interviews—Attending school football games and assembly programs that had us rolling in the aisles, until the principal came along and made us put the dice away. Being everywhere at once and trying to mingle with the "elite."

Senior At long last post war—Social aspects with all the trimmings. Underclassmen asked us for advice. We worried only about getting through, passing that make-up gym, about engagements and acceptance at college. Our grade advisor became another Mrs. Anthony. We were seniors—and our pins caused more attention than if they had been made from neon lights.

We bullied freshmen (poor innocent lambs) into buying our lunches. The slogan of the lunchroom became: "Have to punch to keep the bunch from munching your lunch." And sometimes when we finally reached the lunch counter—No utensils! We looked at our fingers. Personally we had nothing against them. The only trouble is they leak when you try to eat soup with them. So we chose a well-balanced diet: 5 cakes, pie, a bag of pretzels, ice cream, and a chocolate bar. Suddenly 300 friends came out of nowhere and helped themselves.

And the Prom, with our favorite dates (because we were pretty well settled by then). Dancing to the strains of a name band—everyone was calling them names. We looked forward to June, Commencement, Senior Class Day. What an experience, only once in a lifetime. All right, twice in a lifetime. But we all fail together! We took time out for fun. Yet we couldn't help looking back with a twinge of nostalgia on the school that had become a part of us, and where we had spent four eventful years of our lives.

Madison Six Defeats Lincoln in Potsy Tournament; Strum, Grubaum, Auns Excel in Important Victory

In a rousing contest before seventeen eager spectators, the James Madison High School Potsy Team, under the able management of Anita Spachie, defeated the touted Lincoln aggregation 19-17. Thus Madison has annexed the city championship after twenty-five years in the second division. Auns, long-legged veteran of three campaigns, opened up with our 19 point attack, by scoring a perfect onezy.

Lincoln's Stutsmx and Hammersplts then went wild and scored twelve straight between them. At the half, Lincoln led us twelve to one. It looked bad, but coach Spachie gave the boys a pep-talk which sent them off and winging in the final period. Grubaum began with a twozy and a jump-threezy and worked all the way up to sevenzy before he was stopped. Strum followed with a fine corner-shot and leap on the eightzy and continued right on to the end with a few Lincoln goals in between. Auns took over from there and missed on the threezy when he fouled out.

The game was won, however, and a final splurge by Lincoln, which saw them repeat a double jump-threezy (marking the first time this has ever been done in the annals of the game) could not quite overhaul us. Auns, Strum and Grubaum were carried off the pavement as heroes and their feats will long live in the annals of Madison's sports achievements.

Alumnuses Return

By Cy A. FREEZE

For the past two weeks, the school has been celebrating the 205th birthday of James Madison by presenting at the assemblies several alumni who have achieved fame in the world.

At the first assembly, Howard Rayfiel, Governor of the State of New York, Milton Lesser, author of the best-seller, Life Can Be Sunny—Smith, and Jerome Sachs, well know comedian, addressed the student body.

Governor Rayfiel explained how the government works and what one needs to become a successful politician. "The main prerequisites are the ability to talk and perseverance," he said.

Mr. Lesser read from one of his books and explained the art of table golf. You start on the green with six holes and 15 balls to sink. One takes his favorite c(l)-u(b)e and proceeds to put the balls in the holes. That is Mr. Lesser's formula for success.

Mr. Sachs entertained with a few of his new jokes including, "Why does a chicken cross the road? A. To get to the other side; and Who was that woman I saw you with last night? A. That was no woman, that was my wife." The student body was delirious.

At the second assembly, Gloria Berk, star at the Metropolitan, Barry Schwartz, Congressman, and Wally Sturm, coach of the R-PU basketball team.

Miss Berk sang the hit songs of the new show, Pennsylvania, The Hot-foot with the Singe on the Top and Pennsylvania. Miss Berk was taught under the swooning baton of Frank Sinatra.

Mr. Schwartz told how he recently broke the record for filibustering by two months, three weeks, two days, four hours, seven minutes and twenty-three seconds. He's proud of that one.

Mr. Sturm has outdone the firehorse tactics of Rhode Island State with jet propelled passing, and parachute shooting. His team, averaging seven foot ten drops the ball from the stratosphere attached to parachutes and let the ball float down for the score.

The assemblies were followed by the Report To The Nation address given by President Harvy Peck the second.

Trading On Madison's Stock Exchange

Trading opened briskly today with gym spots gaining two points, but the Dobbs-Jones Averages showed conclusively that all Seniors were selling furiously in an attempt to water the market before they graduate. Elevator passes lost three to three and a half because of the influx of two new operators who each have twenty-twenty vision and a vicious temper. Late passes remained unchanged to off one quarter as rocket wings brought more students here on time. Seats in the solarium gained as new high-pressure steam rooms and expert alcohol-rubbers arrived.

Atsira Students Abolish Teachers in Quick Coup; Other High Schools Next, Asserts Gerald Eightball; Teachers Evacuated to Staten Island Concentration Camps

By Shakespeare Q. Morer

In a decisive movement calculated to chase Board of Education Members under their covers, and calculated to keep you in suspense, the James Madison Atsira Society efficiently and definitely abolished once and for all the menace of pedantic pedagogues which for so long has been hanging over these halls of ours under the guise of teaching certificates. The vote was close, 2,456,890 to 1—with the one negative ballot being cast by Stevedor L. Sleighbell—and later declared illegal because Stevedor was not a member of Atsira, having been earlier discharged because his average fell below the required forty-two.

Gerald Eightball, Reichsfuehrer of the Society, declared, in a sweeping manifesto known as the Eightball misque-corallary:

"Today, Madison—tomorrow, the borough! This move of ours tells of better things to come, with the Atsira, behind Eightball, rising to a supreme position. I can promise you bigger, stronger, better, longer-lasting buttons. I can—"

The roars of the crowd were intense, as Gerald, sublime and confident, shoves his hand earthward, in the traditional Atsira pledge. The next speaker was Syless J. Boill, defeated by another class vote—as Reichsfuehrer of Atsira Fraulienes, Inc., who stated, "although I lost, I am not defeated. We boills—I mean Boills, have a habit of achieving our goals. Eightball had better guard himself well and—"

At that moment, a flying missile struck Syless, and he staggered off the platform, and careened wildly into the nearest manhole.

Such quiet and order and tact at these Atsira meetings proves conclusively that the movement cannot fail. Besides, d'you know what Atsira spells backwards? Oh no—It couldn't, . . .

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I have been in dear old JMHS for nigh unto six years, the last two of which I have been a senior, and I have never had my name in the paper. This term I only need to pass five subjects to graduate, P.T., Gym, Physical Training, Swimming and Hygiene. I intend to go to the University of Squimehannem on the Scent and I will strive for a B.S. (Bachelor of Swimming). I would therefore like to have my name in the paper. Can I, huh?

Signed,
Anxious

Editor No.

Dear Editor:

Some P.M. students have been running around the school lately with water pistols and have taken my job away. It is no longer funny when the fountain I have fixed to squirt becomes obsolete because they shoot water down the person's neck and this is much more efficient. They also water all the plants thus depriving me of my serious credits each term. What should I do?

Signed,
All Wet

Editor: The water pistol is outmoded in this modern age so why don't you keep up with modern scientific improvements. You can easily clean up this situation by bringing a few seltzer bottles with rechargers. They are more powerful, have a longer range and you can always drink some if you get thirsty.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Madison must have a very marvelous chess team. I'm firmly convinced of this fact, and not only that—but I know it! You see, I was walking through the halls the other day, when this guy accosts me.

"Bud," he said, "I'm a ranking member of the Madison Chess Team. I never lose to anybody. Never. Wanna play me?"

"Yes," I said, because I wanted some relaxation, and besides, I am cutting my trigonometry class.

So he pulls out his portable board and ivory pieces and we begin.

"I never lose," he said. "I love the game."

"Ummm," I answered lugubriously.

"Man," he said laconically, "Am I gonna beat you bad. I can't lose—and what is more, I'll pull a real intelligent plan on you, and have you polished off very fast. Very fast."

The pieces were moving now, and he sure was a fine player. Besides, I had only played the game once before.

"Check," I said.

He laughed and moved his king out of danger. He then castled left right over center, and made some real fine moves, beginning with his left bishop near my right knight and his both rooks within proximity of my queen, thus crossing the center and endangering my flank.

He smiled.

"Check," I said.

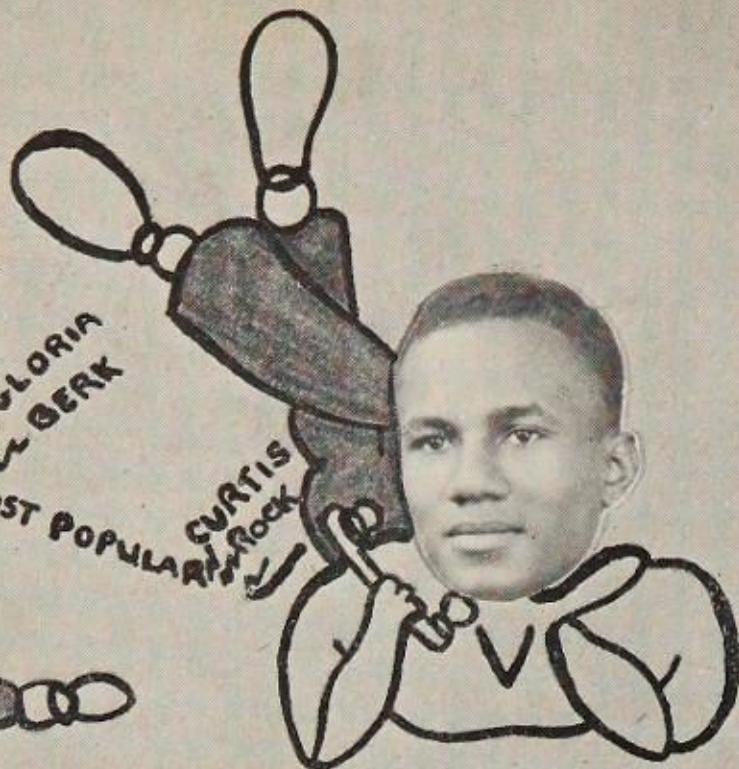

He frowned.

"Checkmate," said I, walking away from the best player on a very fine chess team.

Sincerely
J. M. Rook

Touchdown

This year, Murray Gerenstein, former CCNY great, took over the job of football coach. Mike Torgan was football coach for 20 years, producing 3 borough championships, 2 city championships, and one state championship. With Mike Torgan on the sidelines, the Madison football team compiled a record of three losses, one tie, and one win.

The initial game of the season saw an inexperienced Madison squad outplayed by a powerful Boys' High team by the score of 12-0. Then, after suffering another defeat by Tech, the Quentin Roaders trounced Tilden 26-7. Arnie Schwartz and Nick Blend scored 20 points. Panagakos scored the last touchdown. The boys of Black and Gold then fought Lincoln to a 7-6 first half. Although the Quentin Roaders lost by the score of 20-6, Buddy Kahn and Arnie Schwartz were the outstanding players in the game. In the third quarter, Buddy Kahn made five tackles in five plays. Arnie Schwartz scored Madison's lone touchdown, but not before five men hit him. Arnie just wouldn't go down. The Black and Gold then fought Lafayette to a 13-13 tie at Ebbets Field.

Captain Monte Schussel won individual honors by being named on every all-scholastic team. He did a great job at tackle. Another senior who stood out was Fred Kimmel. Fred hurt his leg in the Tech contest and was forced to remain on the bench for the rest of the season. He was named All-City Center in 1944. Fred, believe it or not, played 60 minutes of every game in '44. Fred hopes to play his college football at Ohio State. I will now run through the rest of the seniors on the team. Joe Panagakos, Kris Kitsos and Johnny Burke were the backfield men. Wally Grubman, and Palmeri were outstanding on the line.

Off The Blackboards

How can a team that was deemed by many the best in the league open its season with four straight losses and come through with a season record of only four wins and six defeats? If you can answer that question you know the reason for the comparatively poor showing of the 1945-46 edition of the Madison Mosketees.

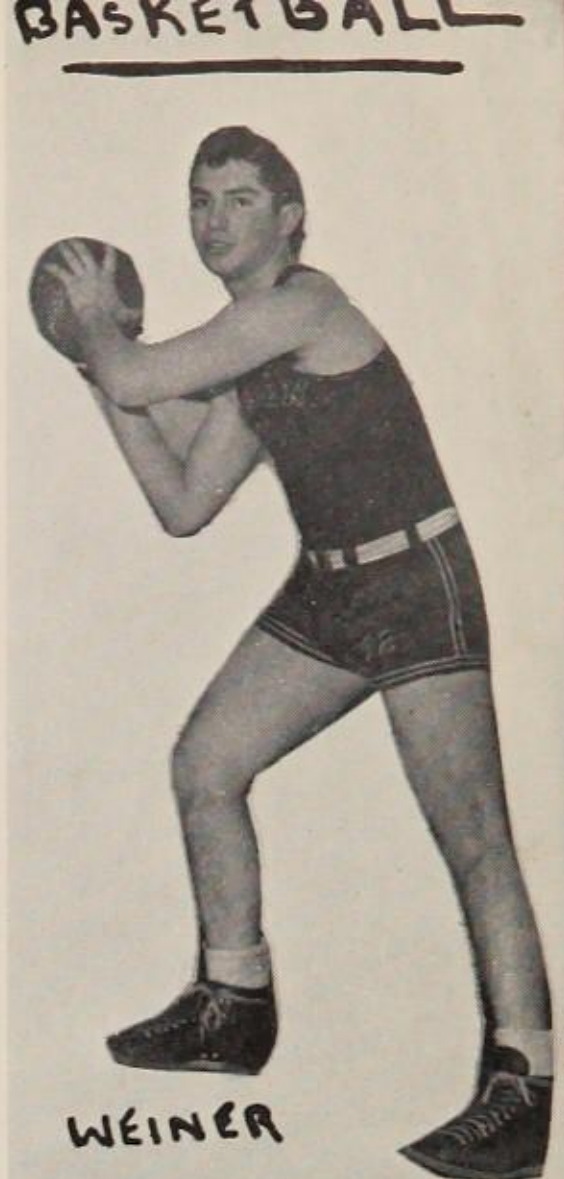

Many solutions have been proposed but none find any fault with the play of the three graduating members of the squad, Captain Floyd Weiner, Joe Orns, and Wally Sturm. Weiner throughout the campaign displayed skill and team play that are rarely found in a high school player. In addition to being second highest scorer in the league. Floyd was also an excellent floor man and spark plug.

Because of an injury incurred in pre-season practice Joe Orns was forced to sit out the first four games of the season; the four that were lost. His great value to the team was demonstrated with its resurgence when he was put back to the lineup. Under the boards Joe was our greatest threat and his spirited style of play often supplied the spark for a Madison victory.

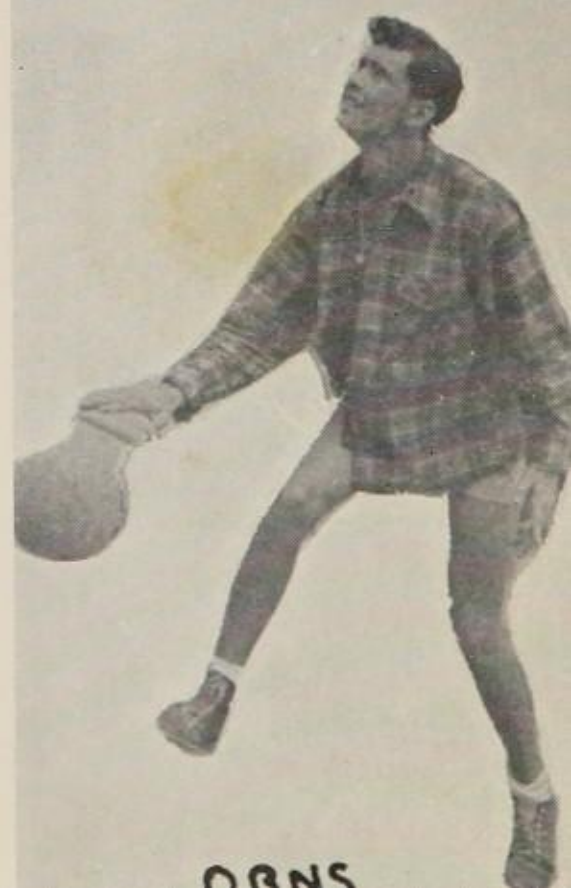

Although Wally Sturm was not one of the starting five his ability was unquestionable. In his role of sixth man he saw lots of action and always exhibited a great deal of fight on the court.

Next year Coach Moskowitz will try to better this season's record with a probable starting lineup of Meyers, Saunders, Diamond, Woolman, and Schwartz. The part of team leader played so adeptly by Floyd Weiner during the past campaign will have to fall upon Licky Meyers.

Line Drives

Throughout a period of four years of competitive sports, the baseball team under the very able guidance of Arthur Wunderlich has been one of the most consistent, successful and potent teams in Brooklyn Divisional play.

Each year, starting way back in 1943, the Wundermen have constantly been the choice to cop baseball's coveted award—a championship. And yet through some ironical twist of fate only the 1943 edition of the Wundermen won the title. It was the great Sid Rosner who chucked the team to the playoffs, losing only in the final, 1-0.

The 1946 campaign might well prove to be the very year that the Wundermen have long awaited. The infield is loaded with veterans; Chouinard and Hochberg control the initial sack; Torpey and Kitsos both seem destined to handle the keystone slots; and Claro, Panagakos and Gibson are around the hot corner. The other pastures are roamed by Severino, Ferrari, Kimmel, Higgins and Kahn. The battery is the most potent of all the positions. Nicky Blend is behind the plate and Eilertsen, Higgins and Morris comprise the first three pitchers.

The team is fast, hits hard, and is strong in the battery department. Of course, only time and Providence can tell whether the Highwaymen will be the team to cop the first Brooklyn Dodger trophy award.

Among the graduation stars, it is befitting to pay tribute to Joe Torpey and Christ Kitsos, two all around infielders. The graduating athletes deserve a great deal of credit for representing the school in every capacity.

Tennis

In 1944, Coach Sam Schindler found that the entire 1943 tennis team had graduated and that he would have to start from scratch. When the time came to choose a starting line-up, he shrewdly ignored all mediocre upper-classmen and had his team composed of all sophomores. Not much in the way of startling play was expected, and no one in this frame of mind was disappointed by the results. Don Harris, Lou Goldman, Al Silverman and Harold Hyman started in the singles matches, and Herb Goldsmith, Sam Benjamin, Larry Klepper and Ansil Marks alternated for the doubles matches. The team lost most of their tournaments, but gained much valuable experience.

The following season the team's prospects looked brighter. Paul Simel broke into the starting line-up to join the veterans, displacing Hyman to doubles by his fine playing. The happy outlook was dimmed however, when it was learned that Sid Schwartz, one of the country's top ten boy players, had joined Erasmus, and Len Steiner, almost equal in ability to Schwartz was on Tech's team, the city champs in 1944.

The team ended the season with a record of 2 wins against 6 setbacks, to capture fourth place. The record however doesn't tell the whole story. The victories were by the scores of 5-0, and 4-1, quite one-sided. The defeats were not. Against Erasmus, the city champs in 1945, Madison lost 3-2. In this match Harris was overwhelmed by Schwartz 6-0, 6-1, Goldman lost a heart-breaker to Stichman, Capt. of the Erasmus team, 6-4, 6-4, and Al Silverman lost by an almost identical score. Paul Simel and the doubles team came through with victories.

Against Midwood it was the same story. Capt. Don Harris lost 7-5, 6-2, Goldman 6-3, 6-2, Silverman lost the closest match of the season, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4, Simel won easily and the doubles team of Hyman and Benjamin was downed 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. The final score of 4-1 hardly gave a true picture.

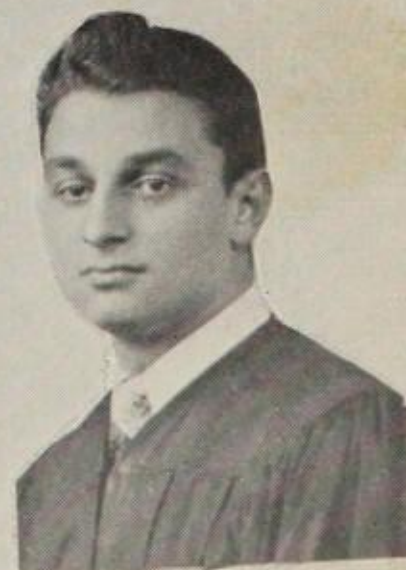

GOLDMAN

This season Capt. Lou Goldman will lead a green team with the aid of Red Hyman, the only other remaining veteran. The accent will again be on lower termers with Marvin Shield, Sam Berman and George Shapiro starting. Some seniors who show promise such as Arnie Samuels, Phil Weinstein, Herb Brofsky and Roger Lester will not be disregarded and may play doubles.

The league standings will probably be the same this year as last. When Messrs. Sidney Schwartz, Len Steiner and company finally do graduate, there undoubtedly will be a shifting of power possibly in the Black and Gold's direction.

BY LOU GOLDMAN

Handball

Under the tutelage of coach Joe Rothbart, this year's handball squad hopes to improve its 3 and 3 record of last year, which was gained with an inexperienced group. Jack Davis, captain and Wally Sturm are the only two men who are seniors. The rest of the team has Garvin Goodman, Sidney Schuber and Dick Ekmanian as the top starters. Last season's record, being compiled at the hands of staunch veterans from the opposing schools, is very likely to be bettered, because of the graduation of many of the stars from these league high schools.
